BACKGROUNDER

The Seoul Resolution was signed by participants at the World Summit 2022 for Peace on the Korean Peninsula, co-chaired by former UN Secretary General Ban Ki-moon and Cambodia Prime Minister Hun Sen. It promotes a multi-sectoral approach that embraces ‘current and former Heads of State, parliamentarians, high-level representatives, religious leaders, academicians, business and media leaders, women leaders, and artists’, bringing a wide range of wisdom and experience to the search for peace, as well as figures from across the political spectrum and the geopolitical divide. It does not leave the pursuit of peace to politicians alone. Supporting a “Two States Toward One Nation: One Peninsula, One People, One Culture” initiative, it promotes people-to-people ties and cultural assets and heritage to serve as a bridge of trust connecting the two Koreas. This session will explore the strategy of the Seoul Resolution and its application on the Korean Peninsula and in the wider region.
